

AGILE BUSINESS ANALYST WORKSHEET

As an Agile Business Analyst, focus your efforts on requirements that are of most value to your stakeholders.

Think about what you're working on now - are you working on requirements that are of low value? Or requirements that the team will not be implementing in the near future (e.g. next 2-4 weeks)? Write them down below.

With the list above, if you deferred working on those low value items, where would your time be better spent? For example, refining higher value requirements, facilitating workshops with your team and/or stakeholders to better their understanding, clarifying questions or reviewing work that is in progress etc. Write your ideas below.

As an Agile Business Analyst, you will help your team achieve the best outcome for your stakeholders. Thinking about your team, have there been product increments delivered that didn't deliver the right outcome? If so, how can you avoid this from happening in future? What face-to-face discussions need to be had? Who should be involved? When should the discussions take place? Write your thoughts below.
